

Life Skills students at Ben Davis High School find joy in serving others

The Life Skills class at Ben Davis High School has organized a business called Threads for Life. The business gives mittens, hats, and scarves to Wayne Township students to help keep them warm when the winter weather turns cold.

Last year, Threads for Life filled more than 150 orders at Ben Davis High School alone. The goal this year is to extend Threads for Life's services to the entire MSD of Wayne Township school community.

Teachers throughout the district may fill out an order form for items that will help keep their students warm. Life Skills students at Ben Davis will then fill the order promptly. The service will run until the end of February 2016.
